

ACTnow's Note

How can we improve as a nation?

According to the report by The Star on 16 March 2022, some unscrupulous workers are faking their Covid-19 test results to stay away from work, and several groups are calling for further improvement of the MySejahtera app to check such abuse.

The Star also found videos that are being circulated on social media platforms on how the Covid-19 saliva test kit can be manipulated to give false positive results.

"This is the time we make use of the virus," said a user who posted a picture of a saliva test kit in an anti-vaxx Telegram group.

Some business owners even had to shut down their operation because they had no workers since many of them were quarantined.

If Malaysians are abusing this, how do we get through this pandemic together as a nation or even to improve together to be on par with our neighbouring countries? It's time to wake up Malaysians!

ACTnow has contacted Cik Nadira of MPKJ Enforcement Dept regarding this report and according to her, monitoring has been done on and another notice has been issued. In addition, she added that until now the vehicle owner still has not moved the vehicle so it will be towed accordingly. It will take some time because the storage to park the abandoned vehicles is full for now.
